Airport

- The most important gateway to/from Barcelona is the international airport 'L' Aeroport del Prat'. With over more than 25 million passengers per year, Barcelona Airport has the second biggest airport in Spain after Madrid. There are many regular flights to/from Europe.

- The second airport in Catalonia is Girona Airport. Girona Airport “Costa Brava “is a very important hub to the Pyrenees and the nearby tourist destinations like Malgrat de Mar, Blanes, Lloret de Mar, and Rosas. Girona airport is situated approximately 100 km away from Barcelona. The airport doesn’t have a railway station. First, you take the bus to Girona and from here trains run every half hour to Barcelona.

Train

- From Barcelona airport. Every half hour trains leave for the main stations in Barcelona. Take the Renfe train line that leads you to Plaza Catalunya, Arco de Triomf, or Clot-Arago. Mostly the stations have connections to other metro stations.

Busses

- Every 15 minutes the Aerobus A1 leaves from Barcelona airport (terminals A & B) to the center of Barcelona. In terminal B you will find other bus lines leaving for many cities nearby Barcelona. From 23.00 to 04.15 you can take the night bus 106 to Barcelona.
- The best option from Girona airport is the bus. The bus ride takes you one and a half hours to downtown Barcelona. In front of the arrival hall, you can find the bus stop. There are three options, you can leave for Girona, Costa Brava Resorts, or Barcelona.
