Gran Fondo Girona

About 70 kilometers north of Barcelona, you find Girona. This small Catalan town is famous for its road cycling-friendly surroundings; it's not a coincidence a lot of professional road cyclists from all over the world choose Girona as their home base. The most famous inhabitant of Girona used to be Lance Armstrong, but road cyclists like Tyler Hamilton and David Millar lived in the city for large parts of their careers. At the moment, Girona is for example home for Steven Kruijswijk, Robert Gesink, and Daniel Martin. Big chance you'll bump into one of them when you wander the cozy little streets of the old town.

This lively city will always hold something in store to delight you Immerse in the old city of Girona in the evening with its large cobblestone streets and steep stairs. Catalunya, Spain, has long been known for the quality of its riding, its labyrinth of twisty medieval streets with hidden restaurants. And now comes the chance to enjoy a Gran Fondo in the greatest cycling city in the world. The regular route of 125km is the GF loop. The die-hards go for the full track of 142km including the new Rocacorba climb! So jump on your road bike and cycle the Gran Fondo Girona in Spain.

Airport

- The most important gateway to/from Barcelona is the international airport 'L' Aeroport del Prat'. With over more than 25 million passengers per year, Barcelona Airport has the second biggest airport in Spain after Madrid. There are many regular flights to/from Europe.

- The second airport in Catalonia is Girona Airport. Girona Airport “Costa Brava” is a very important hub to the Pyrenees and the nearby tourist destinations like Malgrat de Mar, Blanes, Lloret de Mar, and Rosas. Girona airport is situated approximately 100 km away from Barcelona. The airport doesn’t have a railway station. First, you take the bus to Girona and from here trains run every half hour to Barcelona.

Train

- From Barcelona airport. Every half hour trains leave for the main stations in Barcelona. Take the Renfe train line that leads you to Plaza Catalunya, Arco de Triomf, or Clot-Arago. Mostly the stations have connections to other metro stations.

Busses

- Every 15 minutes the Aerobus A1 leaves from Barcelona airport (terminals A & B) to the center of Barcelona. In terminal B you will find other bus lines leaving for many cities nearby Barcelona. From 23.00 to 04.15 you can take the night bus 106 to Barcelona.
- The best option from Girona airport is the bus. The bus ride takes you one and a half hours to downtown Barcelona. In front of the arrival hall, you can find the bus stop. There are three options, you can leave for Girona, Costa Brava Resorts, or Barcelona.
